Rabbi Anthony Fratello, MAHL

Ten Years ago, almost Eleven now that I think about it, I broke my left arm. Some of you remember all of that. Some of you remember the HUGE Pink Cast I had on my arm. Some of you remember the twisty-wristy that I had to crank my arm through to increase my range of motion. In the aftermath of all of that, I felt as if I had learned some life experiences that I could try to impart to everyone.

That was 2013.

So, here and now in 2024 as I am recovering from my torn Rotator Cuff, am I starting to speculate on what lessons THIS experience has taught me. What newfound, hard-won wisdom I have gained. Wisdom?!? Feh; I need this kind of wisdom like I need a hole in my head!

Sometimes you have no choices in life: When I first met my surgeon he said, “If you want to use your arm, you have the surgery.”

Our physical strength ebbs over time: When you’ve got it up, KEEP it up.

Patience: Sometimes the only thing you can do, and I mean the ONLY thing you can do is to sit and heal.

Gratitude: You never know how important something is—even something basic like the ability to quickly jump in the shower—you never really know how important something like that is until you cannot do it.

Appreciation: How many wonderful people share our lives and our hearts, and how infrequently do we thank them?

All throughout this experience, I have been so fortunate to have been blessed with the people from this community. Cantor Barry held the community together during my absence and made an impact on all of those who had a chance to work with her. Caryn and LT, as always, did their part to keep the operation running smoothly. Many thanks to our Leadership and our Board of Trustees, who not only encouraged me along the way, but have continued to make room for me to heal and get my strength back. To each and every one of you who were kind enough to reach out and offer support or even just words of encouragement.

Without giving it a Keinahurra, I feel as if I am making some progress towards wholeness. Thank you all for your continued patience. With some time and a little Mazal, we will all get there together.

Cantor's Corner

Cantor Carry Barry, MSM

It is with great anticipation that I write to you at this moment, just before an extraordinary weekend for me and my family and a special time for our congregation. You may wonder why we chose to schedule my Installation service for the weekend of our son Eli's Bar Mitzvah. To me, it just made sense. Of course, friends and family coming from out of town could be with us for both wonderful occasions, but more importantly, we could, as a congregation, celebrate a weekend of welcoming: officially welcoming your new Cantor to Temple Shaarei Shalom and welcoming Eli into his new community as a Jewish adult. I was thrilled that Eli was happy to share "his" weekend with me and that you will be able to celebrate with our entire family on Friday, February 2.

I don't know about you, but when I hear the word "installation," my mind immediately goes to household appliances, like in that 1985 Dire Straits song "Money for Nothing" where they sing "we got to install microwave ovens, custom kitchen deliveries." Then again, I grew up on MTV—back when music videos played most of the day and long before reality television took over.

In actuality, the term "installation" has been used for centuries in reference to the formal rite where a pastor is publicly placed into their role in a specific congregation. Unlike the swearing in of a public servant, however, an installation of clergy is much more like a brit, a covenant, between the clergy person and the congregation. It marks the beginning of a unique relationship. As the clergy is installed, promising to take on the spiritual care of the congregation, the installation service itself should also underscore the congregation's responsibility to its pastor. In formally recognizing the man or woman as their pastor, a congregation also commits to learn from him or her, to show honor and respect, and, if they are able, to provide for his or her material needs. While a clergy person is ordained only once in their life, they are "installed" each time they begin their tenure with a new congregation.

In essence, the installation acknowledges that, much like a marriage, our journeys have become interconnected and that we will care for each other in both joy and sadness, through good times and more challenging ones. As I head into the weekend, I hold this beautiful prayer by Rabbi Rachel Barenblat in my heart:

Dear One, You Who are near as the blood in my veins, Ribbono shel Olam, You Who are grandly distant as galaxies unfolding, be with me as I accept responsibility for this community. Strengthen my arms as I cradle Your children in celebration and in sorrow, sustain my heart that I may open other hearts to Your presence, uplift my spirit that I may lead prayer which makes You manifest, help me to learn, to teach and to live Your Torah when I minister to my own family and to this family. Holy One of Blessing, consecrate my hands to Your service.

Celebrating Our Diverse Tapestry: Getting to Know Our Fellow Congregants Beyond Eulogies

As we step into the month of February, I am filled with gratitude for the vibrant and diverse community that makes up Temple Shaarei Shalom. Each member brings a unique tapestry of experiences, backgrounds, and stories that enrich our collective journey. It's time to break away from the traditional notion of only discovering someone's full story in their eulogy. Let's actively engage in learning about our fascinating congregants as we continue to build and strengthen our community bonds.

Our synagogue is a mosaic of diverse backgrounds, professions, and passions. We often find ourselves caught up in the hustle and bustle of our daily lives, not realizing the wealth of experiences that surround us within these sacred walls. This month let's make a conscious effort to connect with one another on a deeper level and unveil the stories that shape our congregation.

Consider the countless interesting people within our community. From artists and entrepreneurs to educators and healthcare professionals, there is a wealth of knowledge and inspiration waiting to be shared. By taking the time to learn about each other's journeys, we not only foster a sense of belonging but also create a stronger foundation for our congregation.

Initiating conversations with fellow congregants can be as simple as attending social events, joining committees, or participating in study groups. Encourage open dialogue during onegs and Shabbat dinners, creating spaces for individuals to share their unique stories. By actively engaging in these conversations, we break down barriers and build bridges that connect us on a profound level.

Learning about each other during our lifetimes, rather than waiting until a eulogy, allows us to celebrate the richness of our collective experiences. This process not only fosters a sense of unity but also opens doors for collaboration and support within our community. Together, we can create an atmosphere where every member feels seen, heard, and valued.

As we embark on this journey of discovery, let us also remember the importance of embracing our differences. Our diverse backgrounds contribute to our congregation, making us stronger and more resilient as a community. By understanding and appreciating the unique journeys of our fellow congregants, we weave a tapestry of unity that will withstand the tests of time.

Let's make February a month of connection, celebration, and community building. Together, we can strengthen the bonds that make our synagogue a truly special place. Here's to discovering the incredible stories that reside within each of us.

From the Board Room January 2024

Lisa Tenenbaum, our Director of Lifelong Learning, will be retiring June 30. Lisa has been a dynamic, caring, knowledgeable leader of the Religious School ... with a strong commitment to Jewish Education, Jewish Camping, and Israel.

In keeping with Going Forward, there will be a Calendar and Program Coordination Committee...a committee that will seek to assure that we are programming for all our congregants and coordinating our programs. Hopefully, we can begin to implement this process in time for the 2024-2025 year.

The bus trip to Miami and the film "Saba Kept Singing" were very well attended and enjoyed.

It is that time again, too, for nominations to the Temple Board. We know you are interested in TSS because you are reading this. Consider running for the Board and sharing your expertise and your interest in the temple community and the larger Jewish community. There will be a mailing to the Congregation that will provide further information.

The winner of the Parking Space raffle is Bryan and Rebecca Aling. Thank you to all who participated in this fundraiser.

Kudos and gratitude to the Social Action committee members that worked so hard to get signatures for the Petition to allow the Abortion Amendment on the ballot. Holly Bromer (Chair), Rebecca Aling, Fara Bender and Millie Seader spearheaded the initiative for TSS. As you likely know, enough signatures were collected to permit this initiative to go forward. There will be a follow-up effort to assure Florida voters are educated to the need for, and purpose of, this amendment.

Sadly, the Board notes with regret the passing of Board Member & Brotherhood President Gerry Kaplan (ז"ל). Our sympathy goes out to Judy and their entire family.

Education Update

Lisa Tenenbaum, RJE

I just returned from the Reform Jewish Educators Conference in Memphis. Over 300 leaders of Reform Jewish educational communities from all over the country met to discuss how we can help more families connect to our congregations and develop a true sense of belonging.

We started by defining the difference between welcoming and belonging. Welcoming is how we greet people, and actually encourage them to enter our spaces. Belonging is why people choose to stay! They create connections and feel a sense of commitment and responsibility to the community. They care about what is happening there and want to help to forward the mission of the organization. It is a reciprocal relationship.

We explored the work of Marshall Ganz, a renowned professor and author from Harvard who has done extensive work on leadership and organizing. He uses this quote from Hillel, a famous sage from Talmudic times, as the basis of his work. "If I am not for myself, who will be for me? If I am only for myself, who and I? If not now, when?" Dr. Ganz states that this quote translates into three questions that focus on the interdependence of self, other, and action. What are we called to do? Who are the others that we are in relationship with, and what action does the world in which we live demand of us now?

This made me think about two important events that happened in January. The first is the holiday of Tu B'shvat, the birthday of the trees. The Torah tells us that we shall not eat the fruit of the trees for three years. Later Rabbis of the Talmud, more specifically, Hillel, chose the 15th day of Shevat, Tu B'shvat, to be the official day of this holiday. In more recent times, the meanings have taken on additional meanings, and reminds us of our responsibility as caretakers of our natural resources, the environment, and the planet. This relates directly to our interdependence with one another, and the need for us to act, now, to ensure our future. One way to honor this important day is to plant trees in Israel.

On the last Shabbat of January, we participated in the Komen Pink Walk and held our annual minyan at the Komen. It is a powerful experience to see so many people in the Palm Beach community working together to raise money to fight cancer and to support, honor and remember those who have been affected by it. This brings us back to the words of Hillel and reminds us that We must all work together to help those in need, for the greater good of the community, and we must do it now.

On February 11th, we will welcome Tracey Labgold from Keshet to our breakfast series. She will explain why LGBTQ+ rights are a Jewish Value and help us to understand why it is vital for us, as Jews, to support and defend this community. This is another reminder of the significance of welcoming and creating belonging for everyone in our TSS community.

Finally, this year we will celebrate Purim twice! On Sunday, 3/10, STARY will host Purim Palooza to benefit Camp Jenny, here at TSS at 12 PM. There will be games, food, hamentashen, and a DJ. We hope you will join us and consider being a sponsor for this event. Please see the form here in New and Views. You can also order delicious Hamantaschen, to support the PTO, Order Trees, and/or RSVP for breakfast at the TSS website, or by calling Lisa T. 561-364-9054 X107.

A few years ago, my grandparents, Marcy & Bill Forster, made a commitment to help fund the after-school program and renamed the school in honor of my brother, Justin. I love seeing my brother's name on the wall of the school. Volunteering at the school is so much fun. I enjoy getting to know the kids and look forward to playing chess together each week.

My Bar Mitzvah project: For my Bar Mitzvah project, I am collecting sports equipment, shoes, and school supplies for an organization called In Jacob's Shoes. In Jacob's Shoes was created in honor of Jacob Zweig, who was tragically killed at the age of seventeen. Jacob touched many people's hearts by volunteering as a soccer buddy for children with special needs. These things that I am collecting will be going to children living in poverty. I have always loved playing sports and going to school, so I wanted to make sure that these kids could have the same opportunities that I have. I am so happy that I chose to help this organization and I hope that I can help even more underprivileged kids in the future.

Israel Matters

ISRAEL, INNOVATION and AUTISM

While the war rages on in Israel, the TSS Israel Committee wants to again focus your attention on the amazing advances in science and technology that this tiny country has shared with the world community.

Do you know a person with autism—a family member, friend, neighbor, or colleague? Maybe it is you. Ramon Tubin, a former chief technology officer at a digital services company in Israel has a son, Yuval, who lives with autism. Tubin decided his heart was no longer in his work, so he left his position at Pangea IT--determined to do something to benefit his son and the more than three hundred million autistic people worldwide.

Four years ago on Yuval's 19th birthday, Tubin launched the first Hackautism Hackathon. Each year, the organization issues invitations via social media and newsletters to over one million stakeholders, including parents of autistic children and others who discovered the needs of this community through military service or volunteering. These stakeholders are asked to submit entrepreneurial ideas to develop real solutions for challenges faced by those with autism. Eventually twenty-five ideas are presented at a two-day hackathon, with programmers, designers and product developers from various disciplines working with the creators to develop their ideas.

Here are some initiatives from the past few years:

FUN FRIENDS: an AI app that connects autistic children based on their geographic location and interests.

POPPINS: The world's first streaming channel designed for people who experience and interact with the world in different ways. Netflix for the neurodiverse!

DiVE: An AI platform that helps employers identify and hire workers with autism.

Last year's Hackathon included two hundred ideas from twenty-five different countries.

The TSS Israel committee welcomes new members.

Since the horrendous and devastating attack on Israel my world, like many others in Israel and around the world stopped. It seems like not only Israel won't be the same after this brutal attack but also the whole Jewish world.

Since the October 7th horrific attack, the incitement on the streets and social media fueled antisemitism and misconceptions about Israel and the Jewish people at large. As an artist and a photojournalist, I feel it's imperative to fight back against these misconceptions and rising antisemitism by showing the Human side of Israel. From my experience, highlighting the Human elements of Israel can provide a reminder of what Israeli society is all about and what we are actually fighting for. To do so I've created the Humans of October 7th exhibition. It is an ongoing project that brings to light the human stories of the unique Israelis who stood up against evil. It shows the Israeli D.N.A. at its best and shows the incredible spirit and resilience of the Israeli people.

Brotherhood

Why has TSS Brotherhood joined the MRJ (Men of Reform Judaism)?

- We feel this membership is quite advantageous because MRJ offers a variety of benefits for us. For example, MRJ offers us many suggestions for programs and activities and actively supports Hillel Clubs on college campuses across America. In light of current events, this service has become increasingly important as we wish to support our Jewish American college students around the nation. We are anxious to work with MRJ in a variety of ways in the near future as part of our commitment to the Reform movement in America.

When is the Shabbat honoring TSS Brotherhood?

- Friday, Feb. 23, 2024, 7:30 PM, our annual Brotherhood Shabbat at TSS. We will be participating with honors and speaking parts throughout the entire service. Brotherhood will also sponsor a delicious Oneg after the service. Again, all are welcome so bring spouses, family, and friends. We will be reaching out in the near future to our approximately 80 members to ask for their support and participation for this very meaningful event.

What is the next Brotherhood event?

- Tuesday, Feb. 13, 2024, 12:00 noon, our popular Pre-Valentine Day luncheon at the Westchester Country Club, Boynton Beach. This event is open to all Brotherhood members and guests. Cost is $25/person which includes choice of 1 of 8 lunch entrees, soft drinks, tax, and gratuity. You MUST pre register (CLICK HERE) or scan the QR code on page 19 and select which entrée you want. Let's have a great turnout.

What upcoming Brotherhood event should I mark on my calendar?

- Save the date: Sunday, May 5, 2024, 2:00 PM in the Temple: In cooperation with the TSS Israel Committee we are co-sponsoring a guest speaker from nearby Palm Beach State College, speaking on the current situation in the Middle East. After the speech we will go to a nearby restaurant for a "linner." More details to follow.

What other events might we see this year?

- Bus casino trip in March, guest speakers on such topics as medical marijuana, bitcoin investments, the League of Women Voters on the 2024 elections, and anti-Semitism presented by the Anti-Defamation League.

If you have any questions and suggestions for future events feel free to contact Brotherhood by email at:
